

Society for Technical Communication (STC)

STC EVENTS

The Cal Poly STC strives to both strengthen the Technical Communication community and enhance the professional viability of our members. You can be part of the STC's ambitious plans by taking an active role in several events including:

Evening with Industry

Share a fun evening with Cal Poly's brightest tech comm stars and fellow professionals.

Company Info Sessions

Want to spread the word about your company? Partner with the STC and let your voice be heard.

Networking Nights

Wondering how to best improve your companies information development? Talk strategy with fellow professionals.

Advanced Topic Nights

Want to further the development of today's Technical Communicators? Speak at an STC-hosted Advanced Topic Night.

Thank you for your interest in the Cal Poly STC. We would love for you to play a role in our emergence as Cal Poly's leaders in Technical Communication and Information Development.

Our mission:

"The Cal Poly Society for Technical Communication is an organization dedicated to developing students' communication skills in the fields of designing, developing, editing and writing. Our goal is to encourage career-advancing relationships with industry leaders through projects, fundraisers, and events. We promote ongoing learning of the industry to enhance the professionalism of our members."

This year we are:

- forming teams of top-notch members ranging in expertise, from public relations to information development
- completing professional projects
- achieving the goal of earning multiple national awards
- working directly with the leaders of the technical community

Please let us know if you are interested in taking part in our social and academic events designed to help your organization achieve its communication goals. Contact us for more information or to hear about how the STC can work with you to make a difference:

Jeff Wong, STC President
jeffw@cpstc.org
949-439-0246

Emily Frydendal, Public Relations Coordinator
info@cpstc.org
916-396-8744

The logo for the Cal Poly Society for Technical Communication (cpSTC) is displayed in a large, stylized, italicized font. The letters 'cp' are lowercase and the 'STC' are uppercase. The font is a bold, sans-serif style with a slight slant.